Title: Despite immigration policy, higher ed leaders stand with Dreamers

Publication Date: December 9, 2016

Summary: Few things are more important to the future of California than increasing the number of college graduates.

The Public Policy Institute of California estimates that we face a shortage of almost a million college-educated workers by 2025. As leaders of the three segments of public higher education in the capital region – UC Davis, Los Rios Community College District and California State University, Sacramento – we're committed to working together to help build the educated 21st-century workforce that our state and region need.

To meet evolving economic needs, it's critical that we continue to provide access to all students who can benefit from a college education and contribute to our state.

Title: American River coach hopes to celebrate state title with shave

Publication Date: December 8, 2016

Summary: Jon Osterhout, the football coach at American River College, insists this is a "no-shave" season.

He said this week has been akin to "drinking out of a fire hose." But the football folks on College Oak Drive are in giddy scramble mode as the Beavers prepare for their place in regional college history.
